

RE: Hantronix COVID-19 Update
March 19, 2020

With the spread of COVID-19, the Santa Clara County Health Officer issued an order for residents to shelter in place until April 7, and Hantronix has closed its office to comply. The Hantronix team is safe and working remotely, although some physical capabilities may be delayed or limited during the office closure.

Despite the unexpected office closure, Hantronix will still support shipment needs for our customers. In the limited hours after the release of the order, Hantronix shipped out available inventory needed during the closure. Since the closure, we have been able to maintain minimal shipping operations to keep goods flowing. As of this writing, we have confirmed continued operations with our main freight partners, and we can continue arranging shipments within the allowances of the order, as both minimum operations and as a supplier to many "essential businesses". However, as the COVID-19 situation is changing quickly, our support team will be available to assist in managing your shipments to your requirements.

Thank you for your understanding, and we wish everyone to be safe in these challenging and unpredictable times.
